DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1,2-5,9,11 and 21 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1,3-6,9,11 and 15-16 of U.S. Patent No. 6,660,008. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they recite the same subject matters as following: a body includes a plurality of spaced slits, where each slits have a distance x between two adjacent slits at a first location along the length of each of the slits that is smaller than a distance y between the two adjacent slits at a second location along the length of each of the slits, where the plurality of spaced slits comprise at least six slits. Furthermore, Claims 1,3,7-9,11 and 21 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1,4-6,8,11-15,17,22-23 and 25-26 of U.S. Patent No. 6,582,453. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they recite the same subject matters as following: a body includes a plurality of spaced slits, where each slits have a distance x between two adjacent slits at a first location along the length of each of the slits that is smaller than a distance y between the two adjacent slits at a second location along the length of each of the slits, where the plurality of spaced slits comprise at least six slits, and where the plurality of spaced slits lie at an acute angle relative to the longitudinal axis, where the acute angle is between 0 and 45 degrees.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 14 is rejected as being incomplete because it depends from a cancelled claim.

Therefore, it has not been further analyzed on the merit.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-9 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Du Toit (U.S. 5,470,335).

Figures 2 and 11 of Du Toit shows a set of surgical instruments having all the limitation as recited in the above listed claims, including: a body (12) has a longitudinal axis, a proximal end and a distal end, where the body (12) has an outer peripheral wall which extends substantially completely about the longitudinal axis (see labeled in fig. 11), where the body includes a plurality of slits (18, fig. 2); and where the slits have a distance x between two adjacent slits which is smaller than a distance y between the two adjacent slits (see fig. 2).

As to claims 2-6, Du Toit discloses the slits (18) has an angled surface (fig. 2) at an end; where the body (12) has a cylindrical body (col. 5, lines 52-57); and where the slits (18) are generally parallel to the longitudinal axis (figs. 2 and 3).

As to claims 7-9 and 24, Du Toit discloses the slits (18) lie at an acute angle relative to the longitudinal axis, where the acute angle is between 0 and 45 degrees (col. 5, lines 65-67 and col. 6, lines 10-17); and where a plurality of spaced slits (18) has at-least six slits (col. 2, lines 40-47 and figs 2-3), and where the body can be placed in compression, and where the regions of the outer wall between the spaced slits can expand radially to extend into adjacent bone.

Claims 11-12 and 21-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Anspach, Jr. et al. (U.S. 5,501,695).

Figures 8 and 9 of Anspach, Jr. et al disclose an apparatus for attaching connective tissue to bone having all the limitation as recited in the above listed claims, including: a body (12) has a longitudinal axis, a proximal end and a distal end, where the body (12) has an outer peripheral wall which extends substantially completely about the longitudinal axis, wherein the body includes a plurality of slits (51) and each of the slits have a length and an angled surface (fig. 9) which extends into the body.

As to claims 21-23, Anspach et al disclose a method of making a pattern of a bone anchor (3,4) using a bio-compatible material (col. 3, lines 35-41), wherein forming a plurality of spaced slits (51) which is across a width of the pattern; wherein an angled surface is formed at each end of spaced slits (51, fig. 9).
